IN-LINE HOSE SWIVELS

LNL231	1/8" NPT	$11.99
LNL231-F	7/16"-28	$11.99
LNL231-C	7/16"-20	$11.99

The LockNLube In-line Hose Swivel is built to withstand up to 10,000 PSI so that you can use it with any grease gun - battery, pneumatic, or hand-pump. Our reinforced design also stands up to lateral pressures that get put on a grease gun hose, not just the pressure of the grease moving through it. Our traditional and best-selling 1/8" NPT swivel fits almost every manual grease gun. The 7/16" swivels are engineered to match the threads and specs of battery-operated grease guns from most major manufacturers. Available in standard, fine and coarse threads.

LNL231 1/8" NPT Standard
For manual grease guns

LNL231-F Fine Threads (7/16"-28)
Compatible with Dewalt and Lincoln

LNL231-C Coarse Threads (7/16"-20)
Compatible with Milwaukee, Ryobi, Ridgid and Alemite

Our swivel works best when installed between the grease gun and the hose (not directly behind the coupler). Secure all parts snugly with a set of wrenches, no need to over tighten.

DID YOU KNOW?

THE MODERN GREASE FITTING IS CALLED A "ZERK" BECAUSE IT WAS INVENTED BY OSCAR U. ZERK.

Alemite had already been marketing, since 1919, ball check valves to accept grease supplied under pressure from a grease gun. However, Oscar Zerk's fitting was an improved style, less vulnerable to dirt and more forgiving of an angled approach.

In 1929, Oscar Zerk created a refined version of his lubrication nipple and assigned the patent to Alemite. Today, many companies make these grease fittings.
